

How can I use this with my children?

Print and cut the crocodile signs out and stick them back to back to create memorable visual signs to show the greater than and less than symbol. Remember - the crocodile's open mouth always points to the higher number.

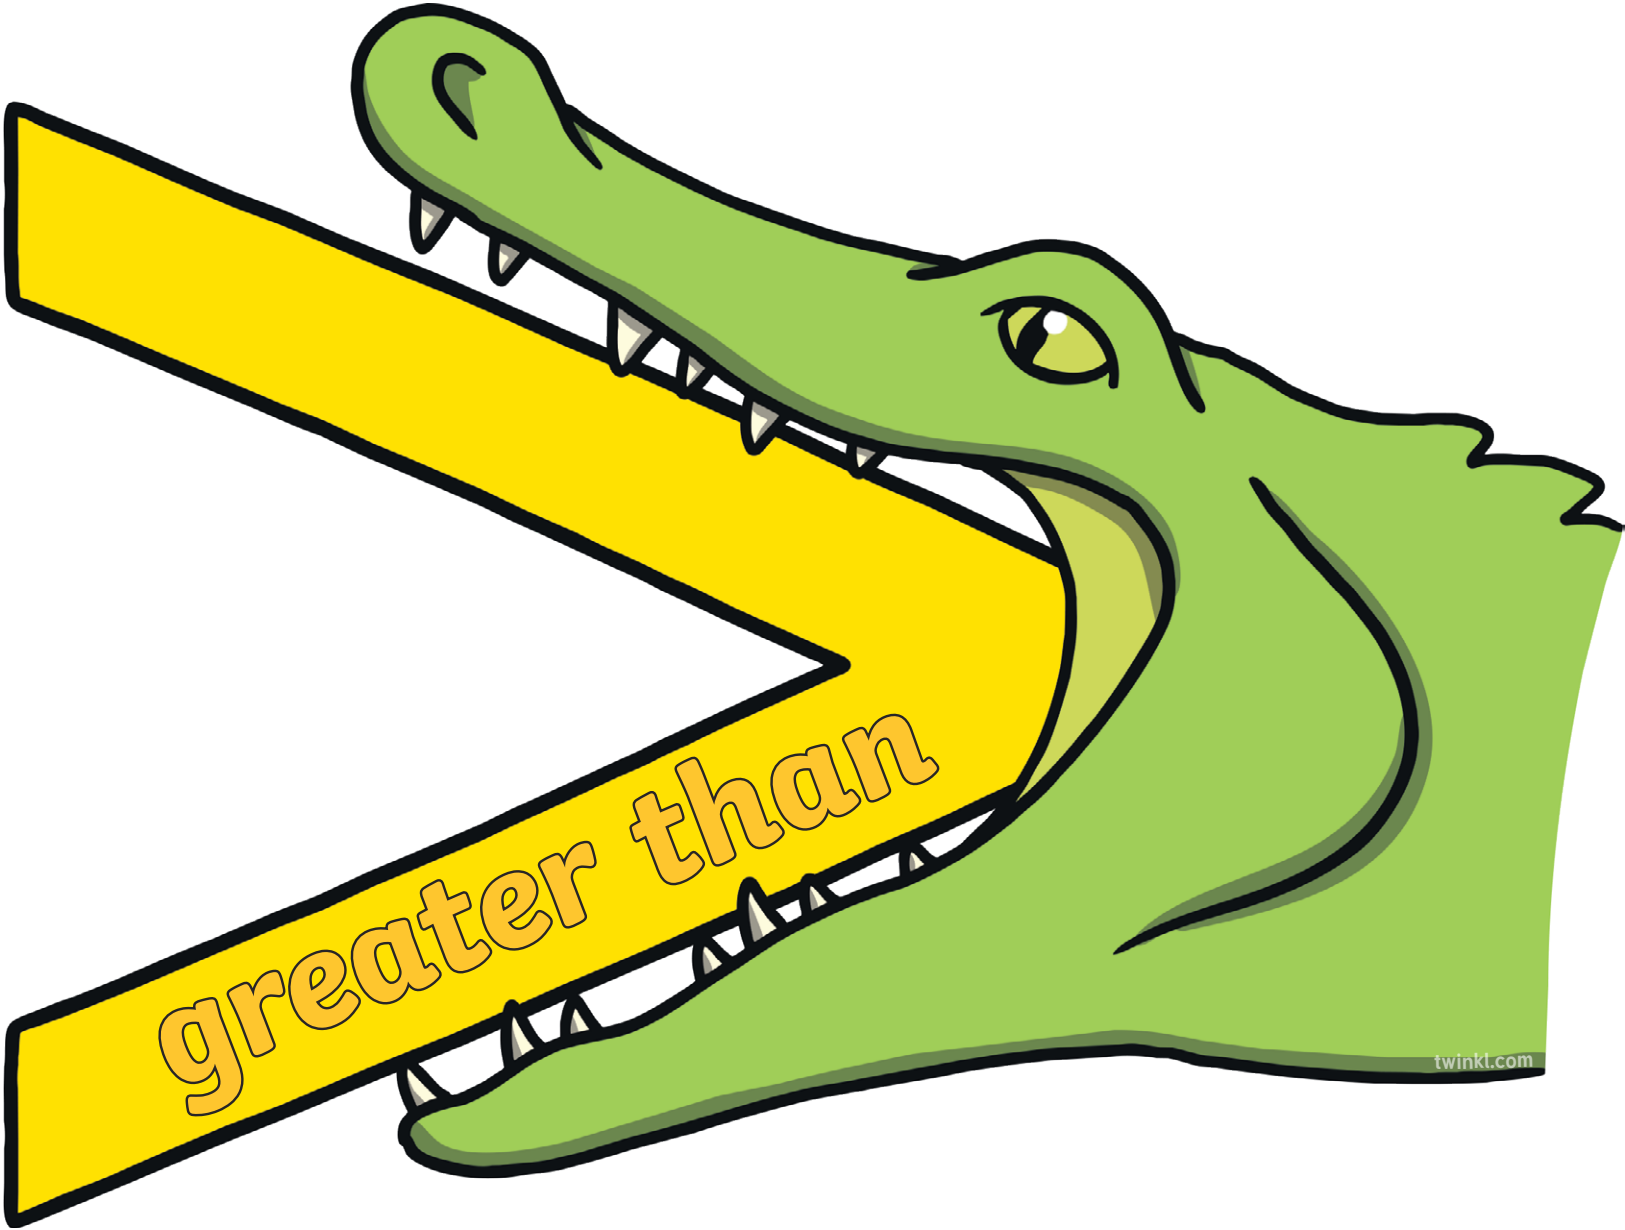

How does this help my children's learning?

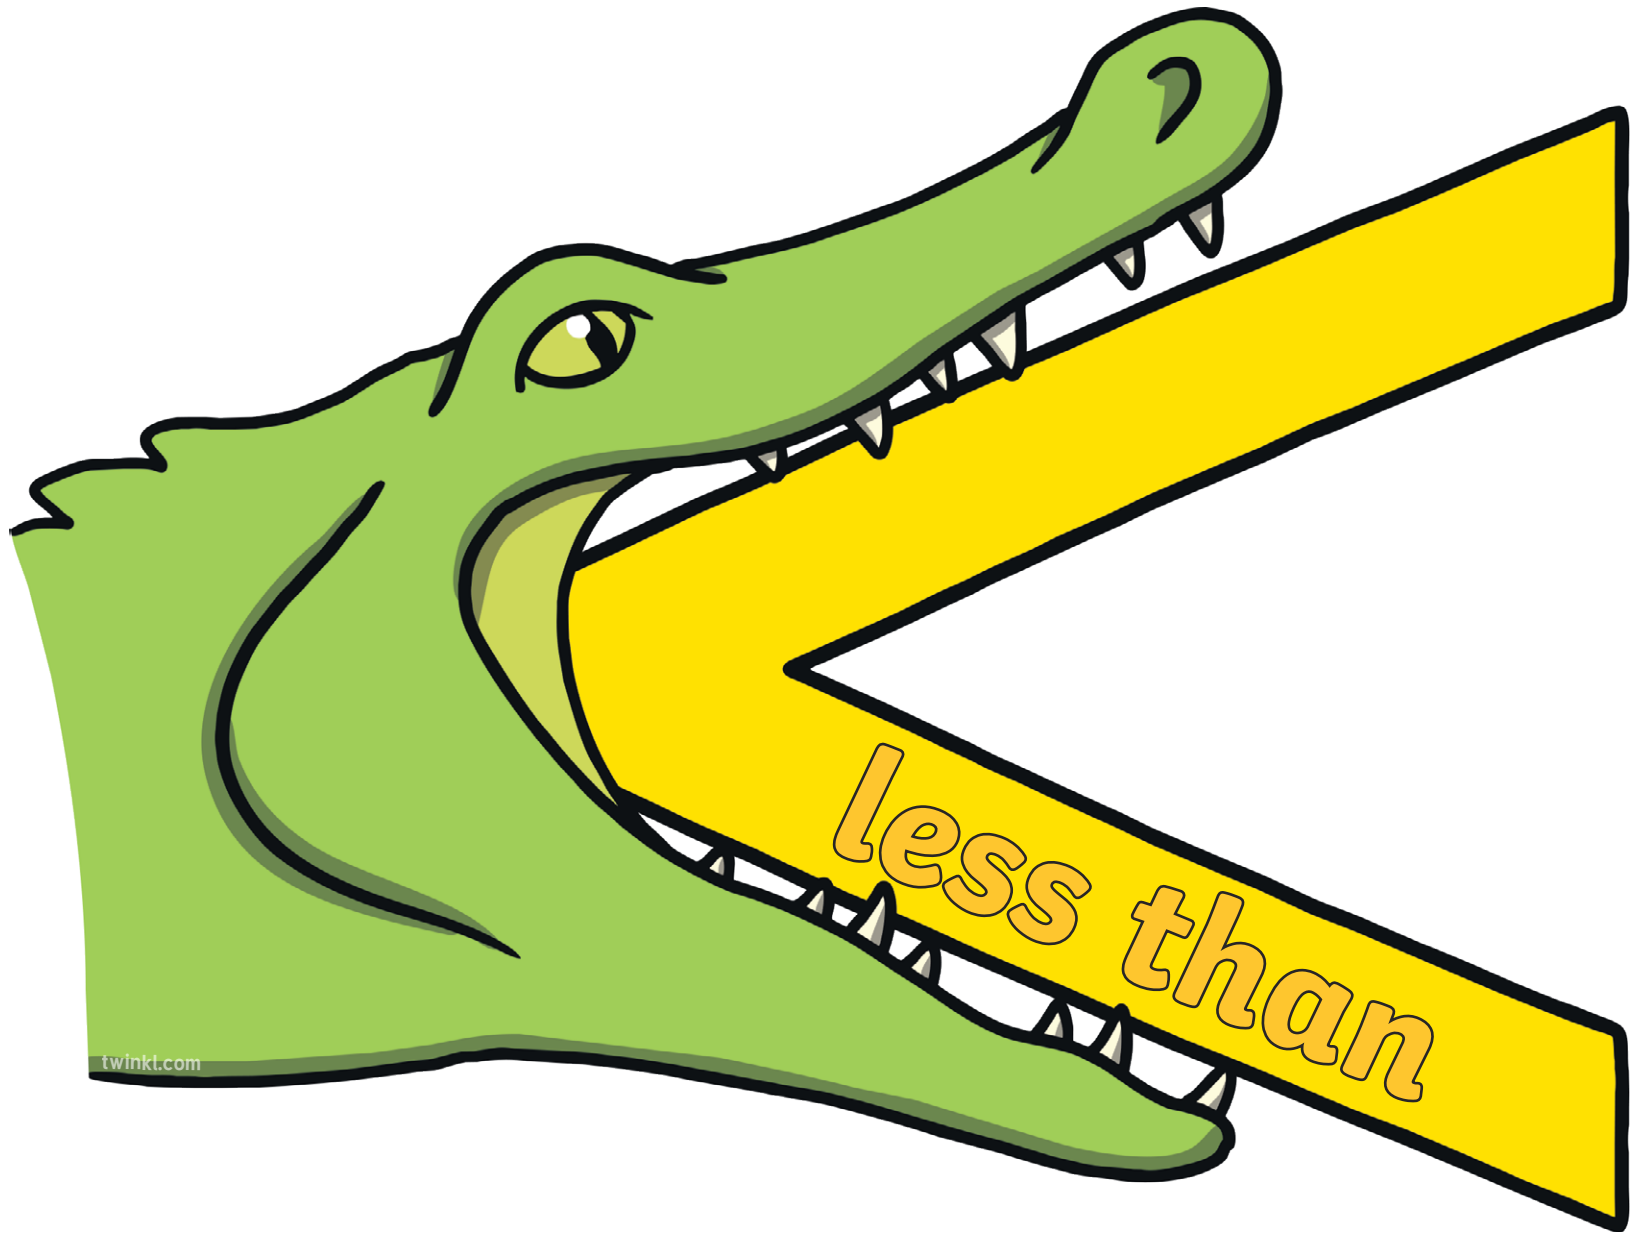

This is a fun way to reinforce your child's learning about the greater than and less than symbols and to help them to remember which way round is which.

Ideas for further learning:

Write numbers on pieces of paper or card and ask your child to make true number statements using the numbers and the greater than or less than symbol.
